TO RICHARD WARREN, M.D.
PHYSICIAN IN ORDINARY
TO THE K I N G, FELLOW OF THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS IN LONDON,
OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY,
AND OF THE SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIANS.

S I R,
P E R M I T me to dedicate to you,
a compilation of forms of medicines, selected from the prescriptions of

of some of the most distinguished physicians of our times.

I am particularly ambitious of this honour, being convinced that a work patronized by Dr. Warren, will not be sent into the world under the disadvantage of any prejudices against it; and hoping, that being thus introduced, it may prove useful, at least to those, who being placed at a distance from the metropolis, have few opportunities of seeing the present mode of medical practice.

At the same time, I am desirous to testify my sense of gratitude to a physician, whose skill, friendship, and humanity, have lately preserved

preserved my life. *Quod spero tuum
est.*

I am, SIR,

Your ever devoted, and

most obedient servant,

London,
March 1, 1777.

EDWARD FOX.

 To avoid giving offence, I have inserted the names of those physicians only who are either dead, or have quitted practice.

THE Cicuta having been recommended by a most eminent physician, and the use of it strongly enforced by many remarkable cures, became the object of public attention in this kingdom; and amongst many others, was administered in the following case, by the direction, and under the inspection, of the learned and ingenious Sir William Duncan, who carefully, with the assistance of the late Mr. Millar, Botanical Gardener to the Apothecaries Company, selected the plant, agreeing with Dr. Storck's description of the Cicuta, annexed to his work, in Part the Second, Chapter the First, viz. Cicuta major vulgaris maculosa, fetens, and gathered it at the properest state and season; which, not answering expectation, was exchanged for the extract prepared at Vienna.

Mrs. C——, aged fifty-eight, whose menfes had ceased for nine or ten years, complained her left breast had been painful several years; and, for the last seven, could not bear pressure. About the month of December 1760, a hard livid tumor, the size of a pigeon's egg, appeared in that breast; which, in the May following, began to discharge a thin ichor, and an ulcer was soon formed, extending to the axillary vessels, almost in the shape of an horse-horse-shoe, near four inches in breadth, and five or six in length. This was sometimes very painful, and slowly discharged a black and intolerably foetid slough, like threads.

In the September following, it frequently bled at the most gentle touch, the outward parts appeared more red, but not entirely of the carbuncle colour, and the margin curled outwards.

I began to attend her on the 25th of March 1761, and prepared for her powders è spongiâ calcinatâ, cum nitro et rheo, which she had taken a considerable time, and continued the use of till the 21st of May, when she began to take the extractum cicutæ, beginning in the usual manner, with one pill (containing two grains of the extract) every night and morning, and increasing a pill every fourth dose. This method she pursued till the 12th of February

February following, viz. till within six weeks of her death, occasionally omitting or diminishing the dose, when affected either with great sickness, or giddiness, which sometimes, though rarely, happened; notwithstanding she took for several days successively, one hundred and eleven grains in the twenty-four hours, and in the whole, twenty-three ounces one drachm and an half, Troy: besides, a constant application of it to the breast (either green or dried, as could be procured), which was at last totally consumed; the virus being partly absorbed, and partly translated to one of the nates, which was also consumed; and finally, a mortification ensued, which released both patient and attendants, from one of the most deplorable, and offensive maladies, human nature is subject to.

I think it proper to observe, that the breast, for the first two months, gave the most

most flattering hopes ; but from that time, the complaint continually gained ground ; and as soon as the symptoms of a mortification appeared, half a drachm extracti corticis Peruviane was given three times daily ; and, at last, we were obliged to have recourse to the most powerful opiates, to alleviate her excruciating pains.

I am sorry also to add, that I have seen it fail in three cases of obstructed deglutition, arising from schirri in the œsophagus ; the two first proved mortal, but the other was happily cured by the use of mercurials, which I beg leave to refer to, under the article of Deglutition obstructed.

That I may appear candid and unprejudiced, I beg leave to subjoin the following cases, in which, I think, the cure may, in a great measure, if not altogether, be attributed to the cicuta.

A young

A young lady of distinction, at the age of three years, was inoculated for the small-pox ; one year after which, she complained of inflamed and watery eyes, for which she had an issue cut, and was blooded. Some time after this, a violent humour settled in that arm, in which she was let blood, and continued three or four months ; but by the application of proper remedies was removed, and her eyes became perfectly cured.

At seven years of age, she had a swelling in the right parotid gland, for which she drank the sea-water. On this it disappeared for some time, but returned again in winter ; however, by constantly bathing in cold water, it was dissipated, and she had no return of it for two years.

I began to attend her, under the direction of the late eminent physician, Sir William Duncan, Bart. the 22d of March 1761, and found the upper lip greatly swelled, swelled, as also a hard indolent tumor in the right parotid. Draughts cum sale polychresto, calce antimonii & rheo, were prescribed, and given from the 7th of April to the 22d of May following, when she was seized with a violent erysipelas; on recovering from which, she bathed in the sea-water, till the beginning of November; and then, on her return to town, on account of a fullness on both sides of her face, and a return of the induration, in the right parotid; she had a plaister è cicuta cum ammoniaco, applied to the gland, and began to take the extractum cicute, in the following manner.

She began with two pills (of two grains each) every night and morning, and continued the use of them to the 4th of June following; adding a pill to every fourth dose, till she took sixteen pills, every night and morning: when she went to bathe in, and drink, the sea-water, and returned turned to town almost free from the induration, which soon after totally disappeared, and has not returned to the present time; that is to say, for fifteen years.

N. B. Her menses appeared between the eleventh and twelfth years of her age, and have continued regular ever since.

A gentleman of thirty years of age, who had a cutaneous disorder that discharged a corrosive ichor, and spread itself over both hands with a white scurf, of the lepra kind, after having applied to several eminent physicians, and also gone through a course of Dr. Ward's medicines, with little or no benefit, was readily prevailed on (in the year 1761), to take the Extractum Cicutæ, in the manner afore-mentioned; and to foment his hands three or four times a day, with the Cicuta boiled in milk and water; by which means he was

was perfectly relieved, both from the ichorous discharge and scurfiness, nor had they ever returned when I last saw him, which was several years afterwards.

For a similar complaint, I administered the Cicuta in the same manner; directing the parts to be fomented three or four times a day, with Goulard's vegeto-mineral water, and with the same success.

DEGLUTITION OBSTRUCTED.

I BEG leave to subjoin the three following cases of obstructions in the œsophagus; the two first of which (in sisters) proved mortal, the third was happily cured.

Mrs. S——, aged forty-five, had been subject to the piles, which were sometimes very violent, about five years; and having taken Mrs. Matthews's medicines, for one week, afterwards complained only of the Whites.

About a year before her death, she complained of a shooting pain from the throat to the breast and shoulder, on the left side; and for six months, swallowed her food with some difficulty. This difficulty increased so much, that for more than six weeks, weeks, she could not take more than one spoonful of liquids in twenty-four hours; and during the last seventeen days of her life, not one drop, but was entirely supported by clysters of strong broth, which were administered four or five times in the day.

N. B. About six months before her death, she was seized with a violent pain in one of her feet, which continued fourteen days, and during that time swallowed with less difficulty than before.

November 4th, 1765, having an immoderate menstruous discharge, she took a restraining tincture, Elixir vitrioli & tinctura corticis Peruviane, in unciis duabus tinctura rosarum.

February the 4th, 1766, she used a restraining injection, by the advice of an eminent surgeon.

On the 24th, she began to take Hydrargyri drachmas duas, twice a day, and continued the use of it about fourteen days.

March the 8th, she was blooded, and took extracti cicutæ grana decem, twice a day; and also, Troch. sulphuris et magnesiæ, ana sedrachma, cum olei nucis moschatæ guttâ unâ, and continued the use of them once or twice a day to the fourteenth.

March the 20th, she took Lactis ammoniaci cochlearia tria, thrice a day; and emplastrum epispasticum was applied, inter scapulas, and kept open.

May the 22d, She died.

On opening her body, there appeared to have been an abscess about the middle of the æsophagus, which broke and ulcerated, and would only admit the small end of the probang into its aperture.

Mrs.

Mrs. J—— (Mrs. S——'s sister), about the same age, died of a similar complaint, having pursued the course mentioned under the article schirrous, from the letter A to B.

Mrs. T——, aged forty, of a scorbutic habit, having laboured a considerable time under a difficulty in swallowing, and this increasing to such a degree, as rendered her almost incapable of receiving any other food than liquids, was at last prevailed on to anoint the thyroid gland, which appeared enlarged, with unguenti cærulei fortioris drachmâ unâ, every night; and take every night and morning extracti cicutæ grana duo, increasing the dose two grains every other night. This course she continued from the 2d of January 1774, to the 17th, when, on consulting an eminent physician, she took the medicines prescribed under the article Schirrus, which happily relieved her from her complaint, and from that time she has had no return of it to this day, November the 10th, 1776.

N. B. The mercurial ointment was continued every night, and the pills and apozem mentioned under the article Schirrus, between the letters B and C, from the 17th of January, 1774, to the 15th of April following, which produced a copious spitting, and completed the cure.
